Workshop Outline

One of the significant challenges within schools is developing and growing leadership amongst staff so that schools can be not only effective but agile in addressing the ever changing landscape of education.

This workshop is the first of three workshops designed to provide an evidence-based viable framework for developing the capabilities of school leadership teams. Across the 3 workshops the participants create an action plan based on the school's strategic plan for the area of responsibility whilst exploring and discussing the latest research in education, leadership and human behaviour. All sessions come with support research and articles and include post-session review notes.

Intentions

- To have the begun to inquire into the role of being an effective leader of your school
- To explore and discuss various 'leadership lenses' and how you can grow your team
- To support you to begin creating an action plan for your Team Goals

The session explores a range of leadership lenses including

- University of Melbourne Research: David Gurr and Lawrie Drysdale
- Social Belonging and Hardwired Humans: Andrew O'Keefe
- Social Intelligence and Six E.I. Leadership Styles: Daniel Goleman
- Extraordinary Leadership in ANZ: James M. Kouzes, Barry Z. Posner
- Transformational Leadership
- Planning: Creating a Vision and Case for Action (Narrative for Urgency) for your Area of Leadership
